"History of the American society of mechanical engineers. Preliminary report of the committee on Society history," issued from time to time, beginning with v. 30, Feb. 1908. Anytime you visit a webpage or use an internet-powered application, you're engaging with the end result of a software engineer's work. Software engineers are computer science professionals who use knowledge of engineering principles and programming languages to build software products, develop computer games, and run network control systems. The purpose of the survey was to obtain information about the salaries and selected characteristics of both civilian and military scientists and engineers engaged in research, development, test and evaluation (RDT and E) as employees of the Department of Defense. This report covers information on civilian scientists and engineers only. A separate survey report on military scientists and engineers will be issued.
